BIOGRAPHY :

The art in all its color

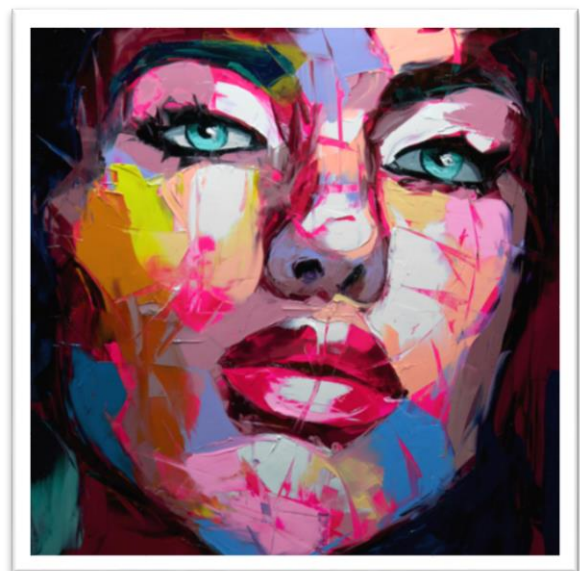

Françoise Nielly was born in Marseille and now she lives and work in Paris.

She got noticed by her incredible dexterity to handle the knife and the oil. Exposing all over the world, her art tries to move closer to the technique of the Cubists which consists in a representation of bodies of facets and a slightly acid pop universe which is inspired by paintings of Andy Warhol. Tasks spring.

Colors are lively. Faces appear in this chain of knocks and forms. An effective mixture which shakes the retina as a delicious but bitter candy.

Françoise NIELLY, par son travail sur la couleur qui déstructure et décompose les visages, se situe en filiation directe d'un Picasso ou d'un Bacon. Elle dévoile dans un entretien vidéo que pour elle « la vie est quelque chose de peut-être trop dur, trop triste donc je vois, je mange les couleurs et je mets toute mon énergie dans la peinture ». The forms and the volumes arise from the color. These colors, lively and brilliant, who remind her the colors of the landscapes of the South of France where she spent her childhood, offer to its works an expressiveness, a strength and a processing of the striking portrait.

Her own way, of her own, Françoise Nielly Françoise Nielly redoes the human face in each of his paintings. And she redoes it with snout, with knife gashed on the face. The brightness of life which appear from her painting arise from a hand-to-hand fight with the painting. The color is launched as a missile. Her energy gives to every touch the intensity of a sound vibration. The spots of painting are musical touches, Dissonant and noisy as the life.
